

In Berlin, a wall falls; in Andover, spirits soar

By Lisa A. Boudreau

The Berlin Wall may still be guarding the division between East and West Berlin, but lifted travel restrictions for East Germans have led to lifted spirits even in Andover.

Simone Tavenrath and Tobias Arnold are two exchange students from West Germany at Andover High School who are watching their neighboring country's changes closely.

Even though the wall was erected before the two were born, its concrete sides still evoke strong emotions and images in the visiting teen-agers.

"Just to look at it is very depressing," Tobias said. "It is a big concrete wall with barbed wire. It's scary and inhuman."

The majority of the people who are leaving East Germany are the country's youth. Lack of educational and economic opportunities sent young people streaming to the West once Hungary lifted its East German border restrictions a little over a month ago.

More than 200,000 East Germans have left to emigrate to the West, and 10 percent of their country's population has applied to emigrate so far. A large number of the East Germans who passed through the newly opened gates have returned. "I think they just want to have the feeling that they can travel if they want," Simone said.

Molly Ryden, a media librarian at the high school and the exchange students' faculty adviser, believes permanent emigration for the East German people comes at a much higher emotional cost than many Americans imagine.

Here's a Bush souvenir you can't get

It took a postal rush delivery, too

By Melissa DeMeo

Now that George Bush's visit is a memory, the people involved have a chance to take a breather.

But cops, cooks and academics weren't the only ones who put in a lot of overtime for the big day. The Andover Post Office joined in the celebrations, too.

Postmaster Antonio Mendoza issued a one-day stamp cancellation that depicts the top of Phillips Academy's Memorial Bell Tower. It has the dates of the visits of Presidents Bush and George Washington.

The design was the work of Ann Parks, PA's director of publications. "It didn't seem appropriate to use a portrait of George Washington," she said. "In order for the design to occupy a certain amount of area, you have to simplify."

A WONDERFUL GIFT!

This photograph was taken by Andover High exchange student Simone Tavenrath during her visit to Berlin. Her friend stands in front of the Berlin Wall on the West Berlin side.

Spirits soar as wall falls

"Moving is a much greater upheaval emotionally (for people there) than it is here," she said.

"Most Europeans are not a moving society as the Americans are. You grow up in a village where your great-great-grandfather has lived...you get a job where you live. You're not moving to where the job is as many people do here," said Mrs. Ryden.

One word all three used to describe the will of the returning people was, heimat.

"You don't have a word for it (in English)," said Ms. Tavenrath.

Mr. Arnold agreed that it isn't translatable. He said he couldn't find it in an English-German dictionary. Mrs. Ryden described the meaning of heimat this way:

"It's a combination of roots and emotional feelings about where you were brought up and where you culturally belong," she said.

The growing numbers of immigrants in West Germany has put a strain on the existing housing shortage and growing unemployment rate in that country. West Germany has one of the most liberal emigration policies in Europe, said Mrs. Ryden.

"Since West Germany never recognized East Germany as a separate state, all East Germans become West German citizens with full rights," and in many cases government subsidies, she said.

Mr. Arnold said the decisions both Germanies make in the next few months will be significant.

"If they don't do it (reform East German policies) well, there is such emotional upheaval, that if it isn't handled well it can turn very ugly," said Mrs. Ryden.

School board to schedule hearing on school building

By Lisa A. Boudreau

The Andover schools expect to have 300 students too many in the 1993-1994 school year.

To accommodate the largest space needs — those in the town's four elementary schools — the School Committee hired a consulting firm last spring to explore building and renovation options.

The firm submitted its final report last week and the committee held a work session Tuesday night to discuss the firm's findings. If all of the report's suggestions were undertaken by the town, the cost could reach $15 million spread out over a period of five years.

Some of the options explored were:

- Building a new, 400-student elementary school in the western part of town.
- Adding to one of the existing schools.
- Building two smaller schools.

The lowest price tag for building one large or two small schools will be at least $5 million, according to the report.

All the options presented will require changing the schools that some children attend.

The earliest a new school could be ready is the 1993-1994 school year, said Kenneth DiNisco, owner of the consulting firm. To do that the committee would have to go to Town Meeting this year and ask for money to design the school, then follow with other articles the next two years.

Before the committee begins that process it will hold at least one public hearing to solicit citizen's input into finding a solution to the predicted shortage.

A package of information, outlining the firm's report is being prepared by the committee and will be available to the public about a week before the hearing is scheduled. At its next regular meeting, Nov. 21, the committee will decide on a date for at least the first hearing.

Washington Hall on the PA campus would have too clumsy, she said.

"The bell tower is a symbol of Phillips Academy," Ms. Parks said. It's also on the site where Washington is supposed to have reviewed the local militia. The bell tower was built in 1923, 134 years after the first president dropped by.

The cancellations, used on 5,000 25-cent George Washington stamps, were given to the guests at the academy's Nov. 5 convocation. Mr. Bush visited his alma mater in honor of the anniversary of Washington's tour through Andover exactly 200 years earlier.

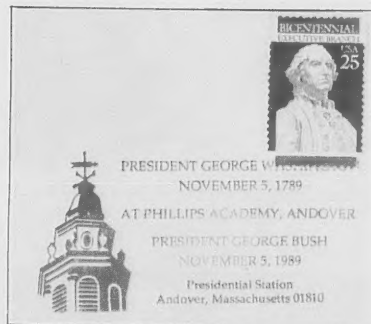

"We wanted to give a gift to people as a symbol of the day. It seemed like a medal or a keychain are very common occurrences," Ms. Parks said.

"I was interested in doing something special (for the visit)," Mr. Mendoza said. So he approached PA with his idea.

But doing something special as a stamp cancellation usually takes 10 weeks; the Andover post office had three weeks. "It was kind of a rush-rush thing," Mr. Mendoza said.

Knowing the "key people" helped, he said. The design for the cancellation had to go first to the county headquarters in Woburn, then to the state level in Boston and finally to Washington, D.C., for approval.

This isn't a first for the Andover Post Office. The office issued a special cancellation when Old Town Hall was reopened in May and another for a crime-prevention campaign in '84.

This special-issue stamp cancellation helped herald two presidential visits to Andover. Only 5,000 were made.

Mr. Mendoza hand-cancelled most of the stamps himself, bringing them home and coming in early in the morning. "It's tedious. You have to be very careful with the ink so that it doesn't spread."

One post office employee and a group of PA students also lent a hand.

Their time-consuming work paid off. One Andover man bought 1,653 cancelled stamps. And there aren't any more left.

After a special-issue cancellation, the cancelling stamp gets destroyed, Mr. Mendoza said. For those lucky enough to get their hands on one, though, "it's a memento that you can have for a long, long time," the postmaster said.

Andover gets $15,585 from highway paving case

Andover received $15,585 in the settlement of a bid-rigging case brought seven years ago by the state attorney general.

Checks totaling nearly $1.1 million were mailed to 155 Massachusetts cities and towns in connection with a case against 11 highway paving contractors. The amounts of the checks range from $81,477 for the city of Boston to $792 for the town of Rowley.

The case, Commonwealth vs. Ashland-Warren, et al., was filed in 1982 on behalf of the state and the cities and towns that bought bituminous concrete from the defendant companies from 1976 to '80. It grew out of a computerized highway construction bid monitoring project that Massachusetts and several other states established during the early '80s to detect unlawful bidding practices and overcharges in the highway paving industry, said George Weber, chief of the attorney general's antitrust division.

To file the lawsuit and arrive at a proper settlement amount, former Attorney General Francis X. Bellotti's antitrust division analyzed thousands of pages of bidding data and associated documents supplied by over 200 cities and towns, the Metropolitan District Commission, the state Department of Public Works and the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority, Mr. Weber said.

Eventually, that data, including information about the miles of roads paved with bituminous concrete in each jurisdiction, served as the basis for allocation of the settlement money.

The defendants were Ashland-Warren Inc., Tilcon-Warren Inc., ERG Investments Inc., George Brox Inc., Essex Bituminous Corp., P.J. Keating Co., Jowalco Inc., James Walsh Sons Inc., Old Colony Crushed Stone & Construction Co. Inc., Simeone Corp. and Trimount Bituminous Products Co.

Bituminous concrete has a high carbon content and is used for waterproofing and road surfacing. Andover used the concrete on 152.2 miles of road and spent an average of $3,117 every year during the five-year period of the settlement.

It was hats on for United Fund

Allen Gorell, a member of the United Fund campaign committee at Andover Controls, takes part in a crazy hat contest at the campaign's kick-off.

Andover Controls marked its Merrimack Valley United Fund campaign kick-off last week with a pizza party and crazy hat contest.

Natalie D. Laraba, associate director of the United Fund, and John J. Menzie Jr., executive director of the Lawrence Boys' Club, spoke about the services the United Fund provides to the community and the importance of giving.

"We could not survive without the financial support of the United Fund and they couldn't do it without your contributions," Mr. Menzie said.

Andover Controls hopes to reach a 65 percent participation goal among employees for contributions to help the 64 agencies the United Fund supports. Of the money raised, 93 cents of every dollar goes to the Merrimack valley community for health and human care services.

Household gas bills will reflect 2 percent rate hike

The Department of Public Utilities set new rates for the 224,000 customers of the Bay State Gas Co.

Bay State, which serves customers in Brockton, Springfield, Lawrence and surrounding cities and towns, including Andover, last received a rate increase in 1983. Bay State had requested a 4.6 percent increase, and the DPU approved an increase of 2 percent.

The new rates will have a different impact on each customer class (such as residential, commercial, industrial, etc.) and will vary according to the level of gas used by individual customers.

For typical residential heating customers (using between 50 and 150 therms per month), the average monthly increase will be between $4.50 and $9. For typical residential, non-heating customers (using between 5 and 25 therms per month), the average monthly increase will range from $2.50 to $4.

The DPU ordered Bay State to increase the discount for low-income customers from 3 percent to 20 percent off the regular residential rate and to expand eligibility for that discount to include all fuel assistance recipients. The discount had previously been available only to those receiving fuel assistance who were 65 years old or older.

The DUP approved five new rates for commercial, industrial and institutional customers. Customers would be assigned to these new rate categories according to their annual level of gas use and, for larger customers, the seasonal pattern of gas use.

The department also viewed a proposed expansion of Bay State's existing low-interest loan program for owners of low-income multi-family properties who install conservation measures.

The department also required Bay State to develop conservation programs that target all customer classes.

Firm opens new day care center in Andover

National Development Associates, Inc. sponsored a "first impressions" ceremony Oct. 26 to open Bright Horizons Children's Center at New England Business Center.

The ceremony involved participants in the development of the project as well as the children. A tree had been painted on canvas and children and adults dipped their hands in fingerprint and placed them on the canvas to represent the leaves.

Lois Baker, director of operations for Bright Horizons, said, "The handprints will forever signify the presence of the children and individuals who played an important role in seeing this center become a reality."

Designed by Steffian Bradley Associates, Inc., Bright Horizons will provide care for approximately 80 children with first priority given to employees of New England Business Center. Space is also available for Andover residents.

Participants in the ceremony included Michael Price, project manager for New England Business Center; Steve Colyer, planning director for the town of Andover; Jack

O'Neil, senior vice president for NDAL; Nancy Fernandez, director of the Bright Horizons

Children's Center, Lois Baker and the children.

Scouts hope their neighbors will fill food bags

The Boy Scouts of America started their Scouting for Food Good Turn program Saturday.

The program included more than 2,000 boy scouts, cub scouts and leaders in a coordinated food drive in the Merrimack Valley. Their goal is to collect 30,000 cans of food.

The food will be donated to the Lazarus House, Neighbors in Need, Bread and Roses and the St. Vincent de Paul Society as a way to practice the scouting ideal of service to others and their community. It was part of a nationwide program.

On Saturday morning Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts delivered a bag marked "Scouting for Food" to virtually every home in Andover. They ask for donations of canned goods, such as soup, beef stew, chili and canned fish, meats, vegetables and fruit.

Scouts will pick up the bags on Saturday, Nov. 18. Bags should be placed outside your door by 9 a.m. They will be taken to one of several collection points in Andover and then to the Reserve Center in Lawrence. Food agencies will distribute food to local families.

The Boys Scouts have been doing an annual Good Turn program since 1912 when they started distributing posters for a "Safe and Sane Fourth of July." They have also had programs to sell Liberty Bonds and make a census of black walnut trees, used for making airplane propellers, in World War I; planting gardens and recycling metals in World War II; and gathering clothes and household furnishings in the Great Depression. Other Good Turn programs have focused on collecting clothing for war-torn nations, getting people to vote, promoting safety and preserving natural resources through conservation projects.

The first Scouting for Food campaign last November resulted in more than 60 million cans and boxes of nonperishable foods for the needy across the United States.

Sponsored locally in cooperation with BayBank Merrimack Valley and Marriott hotels, the Scouting for Food Good Turn is chaired locally by Colin Nadeau, vice president of the Marriott Corp. According to Mr. Nadeau, the food drive is one of the most worthwhile efforts scouting can offer the community.

"This project is one of the most remarkable statements of the scouting spirit that we can make. Hunger is a problem we can address and our neighbors facing the pain of hunger are people we can help directly," he said.

You can donate either by leaving the bag outside your door by 9 a.m. or bringing it to the South Church parking lot on Central Street between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m.

'Y' offers children's day

The Andover/North Andover branch of the Merrimack Valley YMCA is offering a program for children in grades one to six the day after Thanksgiving, Friday, Nov. 24, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. with extended hours for working parents from 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Cathy Dawson, youth program director, says, "The day is designed to give children a chance to work off extra energy after their Thanksgiving feast. Also, parents, this is a great opportunity to get started on holiday shopping, without the kids."

Activities will include group gym games, recreational swims, crafts, snacks, board games and, if weather permits, outdoor activities.

Children must be pre-registered by Nov. 18. Contact the Y, 165 Haverhill St., Andover.

Andover history preserved on glass, metal and film

By Marsha Rooney

"From today painting is dead!" cried a Frenchman upon seeing one of the first photographs in 1839.

Fortunately for history, painting continued its importance, but none can deny the impact of the photograph in documenting images of the past and present.

The Andover Historical Society's historic photograph calendar for 1990 illustrates how photographs preserve Andover's history. This year, the 150th anniversary of photography's invention, sets the scene for looking at the history of photography.

The earliest American photographs are daguerreotypes, introduced by Louis Daguerre in 1839. Prized for their detail, they were made directly, without use of a negative. The daguerreotype was aptly described as "the mirror with a memory."

Framed like daguerreotypes, ambrotypes enjoyed popularity after 1854. Ambrotypes were actually negative images on glass, but turned into positives when backed with black paper or painted glass.

The Andover Historical Society has a rich collection of the photographs and belongings of Charles H. Newman, who preserved pieces of Andover's past with his camera. The Historical Society's 1990 calendar celebrates the 50th anniversary of photography.

Like the daguerreotype and ambrotype, the tintype had no negative and could not be produced a second time. Also known as a ferrotype or malainotype, the tintype was introduced soon after the ambrotype and remained popular until this century.

Prints made from glass plates were often mounted on cardboard for protection. A popular size was the "carte de visite," small portraits occasionally used as calling cards. Stereographs with two almost identical photographs mounted side by side were viewed through a special device that gave a three-dimensional effect.

In the late 1880s, roll film, less expensive equipment and a growing acceptance of photography inspired numerous professionals and even greater numbers of amateur photographers. As the Eastman Kodak slogan said in 1888, "You press the button; we do the rest."

Andover business directories (1885-1920) list only four men claiming photography as their major occupation. E.V.N. Hitchcock operated "The Andover Studio" at 4 Main St. (above Valpey's Market) from about 1897 to 1904.

Charles Henry

Newman (1872-1944) began professional photography around the age of 16. Newman's photographs are plentifully represented in the society's collection, identifiable by their cardboard mounts stamped with his name. His subjects included Main Street views, commercial and residential structures and numerous school classes. He also was requested to do interior views of Phillips Academy students' rooms. A portrait of Mrs. Abraham Marland taken at the Rose cottage won a photography magazine award.

Leonard D. Sherman first appeared in the 1904 directory as a photographer working from his home. No examples of his work have yet been located.

By 1920 Louis M. Huntress owned Sherman's studio at 124 Main St. and advertised "photographs pleasing in appearance of good quality and moderate in price."

The historical society's collection also includes a variety of cameras and early projection equipment. One field camera, which collapsed to fit a portable case, was used by Selah Merrill in Jerusalem. Merrill owned the society's Blanchard House from 1894 to 1907.

Magic lanterns were in frequent use after 1850. The society's collection includes an 1870 lantern dependent upon kerosene light and a 1905 electric lantern.

You can help preserve the society's photographic collection by purchasing a 1990 historic photograph calendar. Copies are available at the society on 97 Main St. and in local stores.

Red Cross readies for World AIDS Day

The American Red Cross is getting ready for the second anniversary of World AIDS Day, Friday, Dec. 1.

"Even when the Red Cross has its hands full with natural disasters, we never forget the AIDS epidemic and the enormous toll it's taken on people's lives worldwide," said Kathy Cronin, director of health services and AIDS facilitator of the Greater Lawrence chapter of the Red Cross. "All year long, we work closely with parents, teachers, school officials and other community leaders to give young people the tools they need to protect themselves, fight fear, ignorance and discrimination associated with AIDS."

The Red Cross offers HIV/AIDS prevention materials that can be used in the classroom and other settings. They include award-win-

AIDS support group to begin

AIDS Action of Andover is starting a support group for people touched by acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

Meetings will be held the first and third Thursdays of the month from 7 to 9 p.m. at Christ Church. The first meeting will be held Dec. 7.

ning video presentations featuring teens and discussions about acquired immune deficiency syndrome. Also available are workbooks, teachers' guides and a series of brochures that target women, men, employers and educators. In addition, there are workplace programs that can be customized to an employer's needs.

"From the parent who counsels a child about postponing sex until the adult years and marriage, to those who explain what 'safer sex' is, to the teacher who encourages young people to abstain from intravenous drug abuse, to the volunteer who distributes literature at a health fair, there is no effort too small to make in the worldwide campaign to stop the spread of HIV, the human immunodeficiency virus that cause AIDS," Ms. Cronin said.

Ms. Cronin said World AIDS Day takes on special significance because World Health Organization officials say nearly 10 million people worldwide are estimated to be HIV positive. Health experts say many cases of AIDS go unreported, and they anticipate that the number of people with AIDS will quadruple by the year 2000.

For more information about local Red Cross AIDS programs, contact Ms. Cronin at the chapter office, 430 North Canal St., Lawrence.

LOW MAINTENANCE
HIGH FASHION

In the past, homeowners and decorators paid as much attention to maintenance as to color preference in their selection of wall-to-wall carpeting. After all, who wanted a pink carpet if it were going to show dirt and wear? Even a recent survey by a major carpet producer shows that a vast majority of home decorators chose beige carpeting in the belief that it would not show wear and tear nearly as much as other carpet colors. Today, this need not be an overriding concern. This is the era of stain-resistant carpets that can repel the effects of hot beverage spills and even pet accidents. There is now no excuse not to give into the urge to carpet living and family rooms with a favorite pale pastel. High fashion no longer has anything to fear from high traffic.

The design consultants at GORHAM'S DECORATING CENTER are ready to help you with the interior design of your home or office, whether you are in the market for window treatments, comforters, Roman shades, vertical or woven blinds or pillows. November proclaimed Hospice Month

Andover Selectmen issued a proclamation recognizing November as National Hospice Month.

The Selectmen join President Bush and the Congress in recognizing the growing number of hospice programs that provide care for terminally ill people and support for their families. Nationwide more than 188,000 patients and families used hospice services last year.

Merrimack Valley Hospice, an affiliate of the Home Health Foundation, has been providing hospice care to patients in Andover and surrounding communities since 1981. The hospice concept advocates care of the patient and family by attending to their physical, emotional, social and spiritual needs. Hospice care is provided by an interdisciplinary team of physicians, nurses, social workers, pastoral counselors and volunteers.

The majority of hospice services are delivered in the home, with in-patient care as needed. Hospice is nationally recognized as an alternative to traditional hospital care.

"Hospice care is proving to be an effective and economical alternative for many people in the final stages of life," said Raymond Brockill, director of Merrimack Valley Hospice. "Hospice offers appropriate, competent and compassionate care in an environment of personal individuality and dignity."

The Merrimack Valley Hospice speakers bureau is available to speak to community, business and religious groups on volunteerism, living with grief, the hospice alternative and other topics. To schedule a speaker or for more information on National Hospice Month activities or the volunteer program, call Mr. Brockill at the Hospice's 1 Union St. headquarters.

THE BUSINESS COMMUNITY

The Friends of the Shawsheen received a plaque from the state for their work in cleaning up the Ballardvale Falls section of the Shawsheen River. Roy Umanzio Sr., third from right, treasurer of the Ballardvale Co. and member of the Friends, accepts the plaque from Maria Van Dusen, coordinator of the state's Adopt-a-Stream program. Pictured with them are (on left), Kevin Thibault of Pezrow New England, Spencer Purinton of Richard Purinton Inc., Paul Frechette and Roy Umanzio Jr. of R.W. Electronics Inc.; and (far right), Robert Benedict of R.W. Electronics.

Shawsheen's adopted 'parents' praised for their good work

By Melissa DeMeo

A group who "adopted" a section of the Shawsheen River in Ballardvale received a plaque from the state for their efforts to clean up the river bed.

The Friends of the Shawsheen were recognized by the Department of Fisheries, Wildlife and Environmental Law Enforcement's Adopt-a-Stream program for two years of pulling everything from tires to computer modems out of the Ballardvale Falls section of the river.

"People say to us, 'If you stop now, will it have made a difference?'" said Roy Umanzio Sr., treasurer of the Ballardvale Co. "It's a beginning. What we have to do first is arrest the problem, then we can improve it. It's like a patient: first you have to stabilize him, get the condition under control, then you can work on solving the problem."

Twice a year — once in the early summer and again in the early fall — 10 to 12 people wade through a 700-foot section of the river and pull out the debris people have thrown in.

Two companies, Dumont-Fortuna Disposal in Andover and Vinings Disposal in Medford, donated dumpsters for the project.

"It's mostly the vandal dumping" that the group cleans, said Mr. Umanzio, who added that the problem is less severe at the Friends' end of the river. "They know we're watching."

They find a lot of tires and cans, storm windows, car parts and, once, a computer modem.

It's not just trash that's ended up in the river. Chemical dumping is also on the list of the water's problems, but, like the vandalism, that's also declining in the Shawsheen. "It still happens, but not on

Safety, efficiency goals as T plans to add radios

A new safety measure will be added to the T's commuter rail system.

A $585,471 contract with Thomas K. Dyer, Inc. of Lexington will allow MBTA dispatchers to be in immediate contact with each train in the system.

The new communications system will also allow the T to install a sophisticated public address and dispatching system throughout the commuter rail system, allowing announcements to be targeted to individual stations and platforms or to all stations along one of the T's 11 rail lines.

In a related project beginning this spring, the T is scheduled to start installing call boxes in commuter rail stations which will be directly linked to the MBTA's Police Department, providing an increased measure of security and emergency capabilities.

The system will allow the T to provide up-to-the-minute service updates about train delays or schedule changes, information about pass sales and other items, directly to passengers on platforms and in stations.

the scale it was before," Mr. Umanzio said.

Despite, maybe because of, more stringent environmental regulations, chemical dumping is a chronic problem, said Russell Cohen, the state's coordinator of the Blackstone River. "If you've got a real nasty toxic waste on your hands that no one wants to take, you're going to be tempted to dump it at midnight," he said.

Groups like the Friends of the Shawsheen will tell on anyone they catch putting chemicals into the water, and the state's Environmental Task Force will prosecute the dumpers.

The Adopt-a-Stream program gets local residents directly involved in cleaning up their rivers and the land around them. The idea is to give each group a section of a waterway to "adopt." "We couldn't tackle the whole river by ourselves," Mr. Umanzio said. About 30 waterways statewide have been adopted.

While the state provides no financial assistance, it helps groups educate the community, protect the waterway and improve water and habitat quality, Mr. Cohen said. Every spring, for instance, the Department of Wildlife stocks the Shawsheen with rainbow trout.

"Since the program does not offer monetary help ... it should not come under the state's budget cut scrutiny," Mr. Umanzio said. "The Friends of the Shawsheen River vow to resist any efforts to curtail this very basic clean water program."

But is a litter-picking campaign enough to solve the problems caused by years of abuse?

"Every little bit helps," Mr. Cohen says. "Let's face it: a stream with an active Adopt-a-Stream program on it is in better shape than one without."

The Shawsheen, which runs from Bedford and ends in the Merrimack River, was once attractive to smaller mills, like the Ballardvale Woolen Mills, which now houses the Ballardvale Co. "That whole section was industrialized," Mr. Umanzio said.

Buffalo Water used to bottle water for servicemen during World War II, and the first factory-made files were put together along the Shawsheen. A brassworks facility also stood on the banks.

Trains would bring vacationers from Boston.

If people realized the river is more than a scenic addition to the landscape, they might not be so careless, Mr. Umanzio said. Fishermen and boaters know: they use the Shawsheen for recreational purposes, he said.

"As people become aware, they might not pitch in, but they might stop throwing things in the river," he said. "Education is almost a panacea."

Mr. Umanzio thinks a better recycling effort, such as the one in Wellesley, would improve the river. "If we have those things available, it will help us (the Friends)," he said.

In Wellesley, people can put used, but usable, material in a special section. "If someone puts an old lawnmower there, someone else can come and get a part, that's not going to get thrown out. Some of the stuff that floats downstream" might have found a second owner through such a program, Mr. Umanzio said.

"I saw a TV program that said everyone makes seven pounds of trash per day, 50 pounds a week. That's incredible."

The Adopt-a-Stream program is ongoing. Anyone who wants to participate in future clean-ups should call Mr. Umanzio at the Ballardvale Co. or Maria Van Dusen, the program's coordinator, at 100 Cambridge St., Room 1902, Boston, 02202.

Exploring mysteries of the sea

Bancroft Elementary School students Christina Oullette, Heather Ralston and Kelly Moore explore treasures of the deep at a "What Am I" discovery exhibit at New Hampshire Yankee's Science and Nature Center. The center is holding its annual celebration of Coastweeks. More than 1,500 area students are participating in the Coastweeks program. Students see a video about the Hampton-Seabrook salt marsh, hold marine animals at a touch pool, take part in a nature trail scavenger hunt and learn about marine life from local environmental experts.

South School collects for UNICEF

More than 150 South School Elementary School student volunteers went door to door for UNICEF on Halloween and raised more than $800 for needy children.

The fund drive, sponsored by the South School Student Council, raised the money as part of the "Trick or Treat for UNICEF" drive of the United Nations Children's Fund.

UNICEF aids children in more than 100 countries. South Advisory Council members helped organize and implement the drive by making announcements over the school's loudspeaker, putting up UNICEF posters throughout the school, visiting the first and second grades to explain UNICEF and encourage participation in the drive and handing out and collecting the UNICEF materials after Halloween.

Each student council representative assumed responsibility for involving his or her class in the drive and collecting the UNICEF boxes as they were returned.

Phillips trustee retires

Melville Chapin of Cambridge, a 1936 graduate of Phillips Academy and president of its board of trustees since 1981, retired at the board's fall meeting.

Mr. Chapin will be succeeded by David Milton Underwood, a '54 graduate of PA and director of Underwood, Neuhaus & Co. Inc., an investment banking firm in Houston, Texas.

Mr. Chapin, who became president after the late Donald McLean Jr., '36 of Andover, has been a trustee at the 212-year-old boarding school since 1973. He is co-chairing, with actor Jack Lemmon '43, the major campaign to fund the renewal of George Washington Hall, which houses the school's administrative offices, a drama lab and main auditorium.

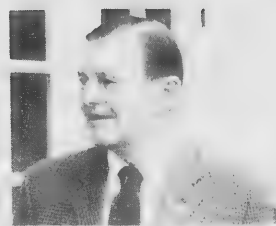

The change in leadership came as the academy was preparing to celebrate the bicentennial of the visit President George Washington made to Andover on Nov. 5, 1789, with a visit from President George Bush, a 1942 alumnus and trustee emeritus of the school.

Mr. Chapin, a former trustee of Abbot Academy, helped engineer its merger with Phillips Academy in 1973. He was chairman of Andover's successful 200th anniversary fund campaign, which raised a record $52 million, and over the years has been a strong advocate for increasing the school's scholarship budget, which currently totals $4.6 million.

He also led the board's search committee, which selected the present headmaster, Donald McNemar. Dr. McNemar, then a Dartmouth College dean, succeeded Theodore Sizer, who left to lead a major study of American high schools and is now dean of education at Brown University.

Mr. Chapin, an Andover native and direct descendent of author Herman Melville, was chairman of the law firm of Warner and Stackpole in Boston, where he is presently of counsel. He is a graduate of Yale University and Harvard Law School, served as a lieutenant in the U.S. Navy in World War II and is a member of the American, Boston, Massachusetts and international bars.

Another example of Raytheon's continuing support of education.

All across Massachusetts, students are in training for a different kind of decathlon.

They're flexing their minds, not their muscles.

It's the Massachusetts Academic Decathlon. And it's Raytheon's fourth year as a corporate sponsor.

All across Massachusetts, high school teams of nine students with A, B, and C averages will compete in a series of ten scholastic contests. Subjects for the competition will range from science to fine arts.

On March 3, 1990, the winners of the regional contests will square off against each other in the state finals.

The winner will represent Massachusetts in the national finals in Des Moines in April 1990.

The competition is heating up. Last year, over 45 schools participated. This year, more than fifty schools will be competing.

Raytheon is happy to be a corporate sponsor of the Massachusetts Academic Decathlon. It gets students, schools, and communities excited about education.

D.C. Heath, a Raytheon company, is also publishing the study guide for the Decathlon to be used across the country.

All in all, Raytheon supports more than twenty education programs across Massachusetts. Aimed at grade schools, high schools, and colleges.

Because nothing is more fundamental to our success than education.

Where quality starts with fundamentals

Dorie Bicknell, media librarian of the Early Childhood Center, reads to a group of students. Mrs. Bicknell will talk about her favorite children's books Nov. 27.

ECC encourages reading

Helping children love books is the first step toward a lifetime skill, says Dorie Bicknell, media librarian of the Early Childhood Center at the Shawsheen School.

"Help your child love books," advises Mrs. Bicknell, who is charged with putting some of the media center's 3,000 books into the hands of Andover's kindergartners.

Mrs. Bicknell guides her young patrons through the year beginning with the mechanics of book borrowing. "The first few weeks of school are an orientation for the children. We talk a lot about the process of taking out books and their proper care and handling," she said.

Up until January, Mrs. Bicknell concentrates on fiction; during the second half of the year, she introduces the concept of non-fiction.

But reading shouldn't be reserved for the school day. "If parents are worried about their child learning to read, my feeling is that you should get books into your child's hands and read more to your child," she said.

To encourage young children to read, Mrs. Bicknell says parents should:

- Make reading a part of every day by providing books and children's magazines such as Sesame Street, Electric Company, Ranger Rick or National Geographic World. Keep books handy in the car.

- Show enthusiasm for books by reading yourself and sharing your child's book choices. "Don't complain about endless re-readings of a favorite book. Try following with your finger under the word you are reading so that seeing the word in print and hearing it are nearly simultaneous."

- Select the right books. "Look for clas-

Student inducted in honor society

An Andover resident was one of 68 Ithaca College students recently inducted into the Oracle Society.

Robert Finneran, son of Thomas and Maureen Finneran of 261 South Main St., was made a member of the freshman honor society. Membership is limited to those students who rank academically in the top 5 percent of the freshman class at the end of the fall semester or the top 10 percent of the class at the end of the spring semester.

In addition to recognizing outstanding academic achievement, the society seeks to promote better student/faculty rapport and encourage the development of leadership skills and potential, said a spokesman for the college.

THE ZINC LINK

Although zinc is only a trace mineral, it is essential to human health. Zinc plays a crucial role in cell multiplication, tissue regeneration, sexual maturity and proper growth. There is also compelling evidence that zinc may be linked to the eating disorder known as anorexia nervosa. In fact, a severe loss of appetite is a classic symptom of acute zinc deficiency. To study this relation, researchers at the University of Kentucky School of Medicine at Lexington deprived rats of dietary zinc. As a result, the rats developed an appetite loss to the point where they consumed one-third their normal diet. Their regular eating habits were restored when zinc was returned to their diets. Another study shows bulimic women to have low zinc levels. More research, however, is necessary before a link between zinc and eating dysfunction can be proved.

Zinc is an essential mineral and one that many people are deficient in. Consider adding a zinc supplement to your daily diet. Visit THE EARTHFOOD STORE, 24 Park St., behind "old" town hall. Call 475-1234. There's ample parking. We have healthy, natural groceries, vitamins and supplements of all kinds and all natural beauty products. Happy Thanksgiving to all.

P.S. Zinc deficiency in children can lead to stunted growth.

South teachers process writing

South Elementary School recently brought back Mary Ellen Giacobbe, process writing consultant, for the second phase of a three-year writing program.

Principal Jade Reitman said the program will help "accomplish a quality of expression" within the school and assist teachers in coaching students to be more effective writers.

At the school's parent-teacher organization meeting last week, Ms. Reitman explained the writing process being taught to students and faculty. Donald Murray, a professor from the University of New Hampshire, also spoke on the subject and passed out a sheet outlining the prewriting, writing and rewriting process.

First-grade teacher Valerie Rurack conducted a simulated class to illustrate how the technique is taught to students.

PAC provides forum for school, parents

By Jennifer Kitowicz

The West Middle School Parent Advisory Council provides a medium for exchanging ideas and attitudes between the school and community, particularly the parents of students. Its objectives are to encourage free communications between school, parents and community.

It enables the community and parents to be actively involved in discussing and formulating school programs and activities and expresses the community's sentiment on matters of mutual concern and interest. The PAC co-chairmen are Diana Gould and Lisa Famiglietti.

Jennifer is a West Middle student.

Students keep busy

The end of November will be busy at South School. The annual Thanksgiving dinner will serve more than 700 meals to students and families. The school begins a sweatshirt sale next week and needs volunteers to sort the items. The cultural enrichment committee will sponsor a three-dimensional show Nov. 29.

Schools celebrate Education Week

The Andover Education Association is celebrating American Education Week this week with activities throughout the schools and community.

West Elementary School second- and third-graders explored "A Day in the Life of a School-child," with each group concentrating on a phase of American history. The results of their work will be on display at Andover Bank and Memorial Hall Library. The fifth grade is hosting an afternoon of cultural awareness today in keeping with the theme of the week, "Learning and Liberty: Our Roots, Our Future."

The West Middle School student council made public service announcements on WCCM radio and the school public address system. Jeff Forlizzi, president of the council, was interviewed on WCCM and coordinated noontime activities with his schoolmates. The faculty enjoyed a dessert table on Monday hosted by the council.

Students at Doherty Middle School participated in an essay contest using the week's theme as the focal point. The five finalists will read their short stories at a reception today from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. at the Old Town Hall.

Barbara Thibault, curator of education at the Andover Historical Society, provided a display in each of the schools that focused on schools and students in Andover through the years. The society will be recognized for its efforts at the reception.

Other groups that will be thanked are the Andover Education Improvement Association for sponsoring the reception; the Andover Center Association for co-sponsoring prizes awarded to winners of the bookmark and essay contests; each school's parent-teacher organization; and Memorial Hall Library. Children's librarian Bridget Bennett will accept a book being donated to the library in honor of Children's Book Week, which coincides with American Education Week.

Entries from the bookmark contest are on display in the lobby of Andover Bank and the post office. The winning entries are in the bank during American Education Week and will travel to the children's room at Memorial Hall Library next week. Copies of the winning bookmarks, as well as pamphlets on reading and discipline, will be available at all sites. These are being made available through the sponsorship of the AEA and office of the superintendent.

The 370-member AEA urge all members in the community to join the celebration of public schools. The state's educational heritage began with the founding of Boston Latin School and the Mather School in Boston, which were the first public schools in the nation.

Transfer Day

Fifty New England colleges will be represented at Transfer College Day at Northern Essex Community College on Tuesday, Nov. 21, from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. in the student center.

BABY TALK

by Jack Resnick

One problem in the early weeks after birth is when to give a bath. It shouldn't be right after a feeding when it could upset the stomach, or the chance for a good sleep. And it can't be managed when the baby is frantic for a feeding. Wait for a good-mood time, after about a week at home, and see how it goes for both of you. At least it will probably make you feel better to have your baby freshly bathed, even if he/she has made strong objections during the process. But maybe not; a lot depends on how adept you are.

You will find the furniture to suit your decor at TINY TOTLAND. We carry baby furniture by Simmons, Childcraft, Bassett & Morigeaux. Baby toys...everything from "heaven to seven". Open 9-5:30 Mon. & Th. 9-9 Free lay-a-way plan. Over 80 cribs are on display at TINY TOTLAND, 1111 Elm St., Manchester, N.H. Open 9-5:30 Mon. & Th. 9-9. Phillips faculty members perform in wind quintet

Phillips Academy's Faculty Woodwind Quintet will play music of Darius Milhaud, Francis Poulenc and Anton Reicha Sunday at 3 p.m. in the Timken Recital Room in Graves Hall on the academy campus. Members of the quintet are Katherine Bergeron, flute; Margaret Donaghue, clarinet; Sandy Consiglio, oboe; Phillip Long, bassoon; and Robin Cavalear, French horn.

Ms. Bergeron, member of PA's summer session faculty, received her doctorate from Cornell University. She is an assistant professor of music at Tufts University.

Ms. Donaghue, member of the summer session faculty, also teaches clarinet at the University of Connecticut.

Mr. Consiglio, a graduate of New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, is the oboe instructor at PA and played with the Emmanuel Church Chamber Orchestra.

Mr. Long, a graduate of New England Conservatory, formerly played with the Emmanuel Quintet of Boston.

Ms. Cavalear, a graduate of New England Conservatory of Music, teaches French horn at Phillips and is a member of the Hartford Symphony.

The concert will have a repeat performance at Tufts University recital salon, 20 Professors Row, Medford, Tuesday, Nov. 28, at 8 p.m.

Both concerts are free, and the public is invited.

Old Town Hall concerts continue

The second of a concert series at Old Town Hall sponsored by Phillips Academy and the Andover Historical Society will be held Friday, Nov. 17, at 7:30 p.m.

The program will include Trio in B flat major for piano, violin and cello, Opus 97 "Archduke" by Ludwig van Beethoven and Quartet for piano and strings in E flat major, Opus 47 by Robert Schumann.

The "Archduke" trio is a perfect example of Viennese classical chamber music. Beethoven's early career, which this work is part of, was marked by great success as a composer and pianist, said members of PA's music faculty. He was a well-known figure in the aristocratic circles of Vienna, and some of his students included the elite of society and royalty, such as Archduke Rudolf of Austria, to whom the trio is dedicated.

Schumann composed the E flat major quartet in 1842. It is considered one of his best chamber works. All of his chamber music, except for his string quartets, include a piano part. The work represents the poetic genius of Schumann and the culmination of romantic chamber music, faculty members said.

The Essex Ensemble, made up of PA faculty members, will be the chamber music performers. Michael Rosenbloom plays in the Boston Esplanade Orchestra, is assistant concertmaster of the Boston Ballet Orchestra and a violin teacher at Phillips Exeter and Andover academies.

Catherine Consiglio received her master's degree from New England Conservatory and has been on the faculty of Oklahoma and Rice universities and the University of Connecticut. She has performed in orchestras in the United States and Central America and participated in music festivals abroad. She has played solo and chamber recitals in the New England area and has been heard regularly on Connecticut public radio for the last three years.

William Thomas received his bachelor's degree from Oberlin Conservatory and master's degree from Pennsylvania State University, where he studied with Richard Kapuscinski and Pierre Fournier. He is in his 15th year as chairman of the music department at Phillips.

Christopher Walter teaches piano and music history and directs the academy chorus. He received his master's degree from Queens' College, Oxford, and attended the Royal College of Music in London. Mr. Walter has appeared as soloist and accompanist in Europe and the United States.

The remaining programs in the concert series are: Saturday, Jan. 27, featuring music of Mozart and Brahms; Friday, March 9, music of Beethoven and Debussy; Friday, April 6, music of Brahms and Mozart; and Friday, May 4, music of Bach and Haydn. All concerts start at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are available at the Andover Bookstore, Andover Historical Society and at the door.

The Editor welcomes your letters.

Coffeehouse stages benefit for host church

Bernice Lewis

Folksinger Bob Franke will perform at the New Moon Coffeehouse in a benefit show for the Universalist Unitarian Church in Haverhill.

Singer/songwriter Bernice Lewis will be Mr. Franke's opening act.

The coffeehouse, which is held on the third Friday of every month at the Haverhill church, is celebrating its first anniversary tomorrow night with the Franke/Lewis show. The organizers want to show their appreciation to the church, which allows its meeting room to be transformed monthly into an intimate coffeehouse. The show's proceeds will be given to the church for repairs to the building.

Mr. Franke started his musical career as a student at the University of Michigan. His years of undergraduate and graduate study of English literature and theology are apparent in his finely crafted, poetic songs about the human condition and the power of love. His songs have been recorded by other artists. His best-known titles include "Hard Love" and "Beggars to God."

Ms. Lewis has been getting a lot of local attention. Her first record, Paisley with Plaid, was released in 1987. It is played on radio stations all over the country, especially in the West, Alaska and other places where she has toured. Her stage performances blend the best of the old standards and blues with her own originals.

The show will start at 8 p.m.; doors open at 7:30. Door prizes will be awarded. In the Thanksgiving spirit, concert-goers are invited to bring some canned or packaged goods to put in the food basket for needy families. The church will distribute the food.

Treble Chorus concert to aid St. Mary's steeple repairs

The Treble Chorus of New England will perform Sunday, Dec. 3, at 3 p.m. at St. Mary's Church, 300 Haverhill St., Lawrence.

The concert will help the Friends of St. Mary's repair the church steeple. Tickets are available at the rectory.

Contemporary quilts by 20 artists from Oregon and Washington will be shown at the New England Quilt Museum through Dec. 31.

"On the Wall" reflects quilting artistry of the 1980s and incorporates many modern materials, embellishments and innovative techniques.

Wall quilts offer the artist total flexibility in size, design and materials used. Size is defined by the design rather than by the length and width of a bed.

The revival of interest in quilts and their textile heritage has benefited artists working in this fiber medium. The fabric industry has responded by re-creating the old fabric patterns while experimenting with splashy and modern designs.

The New England Quilt Museum is in the historic Market Mills section of downtown Lowell across from the Visitors Center of the the Lowell

State and National Heritage parks. It opened in 1987 as the result of fund-raising efforts of the members and guilds that make up the New England Quilters Guild.

The museum is open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays; noon to 4 p.m. Sundays.

Learning nine-patch and log cabin

Quilting skills for beginners and challenges for advanced quilters will be available when quilt school takes over the New England Quilt Museum in Lowell Jan. 13 to 20.

Traditional patterns such as nine-patch and log cabin will be available along with innovative design techniques such as landscape applique and curved seam design.

Sue Turbak, Mary Kolden, Mickey

Lawler, Carol Doak, Barbara Crane, Martha McCarthy, Nancy Bell, Karen Provost and Joyce Heinlein will offer classes from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The museum will be closed to the public and have no exhibitions during January.

For information about the quilt school, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: New England Quilt Museum, 256 Market St., Lowell 01852.

MATH committee examines ways to continue programs under shadow of budget cuts

The Museum of American Textile History appointed an ad hoc planning committee to explore alternative ways and means of expanding the museum's physical plant and public programs.

"In light of the state budget crisis and the inability of the city of Lawrence to provide financial support to the museum, the trustees feel it is mandatory to look now for other ways to achieve our goals," said Edward B. Stevens, president of the museum. "Rather than eliminating any current proposal to relieve the museum's overcrowded situation, for the sake of the institution we are going to look at many alternatives that will allow the museum to continue to grow in its role as the primary center for the exploration of America's textile history."

In addition to Mr. Stevens, committee members include Joseph H. Anderer, former chairman of the board of Warren Corp.; Leslie C. Bernal, associate director of the Merrimack Education Center; Hugh W. Crawford, former president of Stevens Linen Association Inc.; Philip Y.

Curator to give lecture

A curator at the Museum of American Textile History in North Andover will talk about textiles from the museum's collection Sunday at 2 p.m.

Diane L. Fagan Affleck's lecture will conclude the museum's fall lecture series.

Ms. Fagan Affleck, curator of textiles, has worked at the museum since 1982. She is the author of Just New from the Mills: Printed Cottons in America.

After her lecture, visitors may take a guided tour of the current exhibits, "NEWS '89: Contemporary Hand-weaving" and "Factory Labor: Shaping Work in America."

Folk duo slates concert at college

Local folk musicians Hughes and Mikel will perform a free concert at Northern Essex Community College on Friday, Nov. 17, at 8 p.m.

The duo, comprised of Andover residents Mikel Pope and Amanda Hughes, performs a style of music they call "neo-acoustic folk."

"We take folk music and stretch it to its boundaries," says Mr. Pope. Their performances include voice, guitar, harp, hammered dulcimer and percussion instruments.

They will perform original music from the group's first two albums, Sometimes Lovers and Still Lovers, and their most recent album, Song for the Oldest Child, a collection of music for children. Also included will be music from the album Ancient Games, which is scheduled for release in February or March.

Hughes and Mikel have performed at folk festivals, coffeehouses and dulcimer festivals. They are both graduates of Bradford College.

The concert is sponsored by the college's creative arts series and will be held in the conference center in Bentley Library on the Haverhill campus.

THE SOCIAL SIDE

Holocaust survivor gives talk

Gerda Klein, author, journalist and historian, was the guest at the first Women's Division event of the Merrimack Valley United Jewish Communities. Mrs. Klein, a survivor of the Holocaust, has devoted her life to the preservation of human rights and dignity. Her work is marked by a focus on positive and uplifting aspects of the human condition, said UJC members.

Co-chairmen Nan Blank and Debbie Silberstein and their committee, Joan Abramson, Margery Bendetson, Frann Bilus, Cheryl Jonas, Ann Kazer and Mimi Queen, said they were pleased with the positive response from the more than 40 women who attended the event.

Through the efforts of Rebecca Cooper, 1989 chairman of the Women's Division, and Amy Wasser-Simpson, campaign director of MVUJC, more than 60 children from area religious schools gathered at Temple Emanuel of Andover to enjoy an evening with Mrs. Klein. The children had the opportunity to ask Mrs. Klein about her life.

She stressed the importance of a "boring evening at home with the family" and how she had always taken her life for granted until the events of Sept. 3, 1942, when the Nazis marched into her town and "the world fell apart."

"How fortunate we are to have this woman of valor with us to meet the women of valor from the Merrimack Valley," said

Larry Ansin, president of MVUJC.

Community co-chairmen of the 1989 campaign are Ms. Bendetson of Haverhill; Donna Chedekel of Lowell; and Ms. Blank, Silvia Grosser and Ruth Ruderman, all of Andover.

RELIGIOUS COMMUNITY

Christian Scientists plan Thanksgiving service

When Christian Scientists in the Andover area join with friends and neighbors for Thanksgiving services Thursday, Nov. 23, at 10:30 a.m., they will give gratitude not only for their own loved ones but "for the family of mankind—all the children of God," said Elizabeth Cahoon of Andover, a spokesman for the church.

Each year members of First Church of Christ, Scientist, 278

North Main St., offer a service of thanksgiving to the community.

Readings will include several references to family life. The Bible speaks of the tender relationship between God and man, Ms. Cahoon said. Mary Baker Eddy, founder of the Christian Science Church, wrote: "Home is the dearest spot on earth and it should be the center, though not the boundary, of the affections."

As an important part of the service, time will be given for spontaneous sharing from the congregation. These testimonies frequently include gratitude for spiritual healings that have occurred sometime through four and five generations.

Healings of children, difficult home relations and other family issues are often at the core of an individual's gratitude, Ms. Cahoon said.

The community is invited to join the service. Care will be available for children too young to attend.

Local clergy join for holiday ecumenical service Wednesday

Temple Emanuel of Andover will hold an ecumenical Thanksgiving eve service Wednesday, Nov. 22, at 7:30 p.m. The service will be conducted by Rabbi Harry Roth.

Participants from local churches include Rev. Joseph LaDu of West Parish Church, Rev. Dr. Calvin Mutti of South Church, Rev. James Diamond of Christ Church, Rev. Richard Lindgren of Faith Lutheran Church and Rev. Susan Morrison of Ballard Vale United Church. Cantor Donn Rosensweig and the Temple Emanuel Choir will accompany the service with special music and prayers.

Contributions will be accepted for Oxfam, an organization that provides food and assistance for underdeveloped nations. People of all faiths are invited to attend. Temple Emanuel is located at 7 Haggetts Pond Road.

Church shows film that adapts Bible story

A fast-paced, modern-day allegory, The Prodigal, a World Wide Pictures Presentation, akin to the familiar Bible story, will be shown Sunday, Nov. 19, at 7 p.m. at Andover Baptist Church.

Set in a contemporary urban framework and examining the gradual spiritual and emotional breakdown of an American family as each member searches for his or her identity, The Prodigal was filmed in Seattle and various other sites throughout Washington.

John Hammond, Hope Lange and John Cullum head the cast. Mr. Hammond, who portrays the title role of the son caught up in a netherworld web of drugs and sex, recently starred in the mini-series The Blue and the Gray. Award-winning actress Lange stars as his bewildered mother, while Broadway Tony Award-winner Cullum plays the role of his career-consumed father.

World Wide Pictures is the film organization of the Billy Graham Association. He has a cameo role in the picture.

"This is both an entertainment and a message piece," said producer Ken Wales. "Some people will be uncomfortable when they see this film as it strikes so close to home, paralleling so many of today's family situations."

Temple hosts ethics discussion

Temple Emanuel of Andover will present a discussion on ethical dilemmas. The discussion is being sponsored by the Temple Sisterhood and adult education committee and will be held Tuesday, Nov. 21, at 7:30 p.m. at the temple, 7 Haggetts Pond Road.

Rabbi Harry Roth, completing his 28th year as spiritual leader of Temple Emanuel, will present the Jewish and Talmudic perspective. Attorney James Krasnoo, partner in the Boston law firm Norris, Kozodoy, Krasnoo & Fong, will present the legal view. Much of the discussion will center around Scott Turow's best seller, Presumed Innocent.

Rabbi Roth, who will retire June 30, was ordained at the Hebrew Union College in Cincinnati. He holds BHL and MAHL degrees and in 1983 was awarded an honorary DD degree by Hebrew Union. He is a past president of the Northeast Region of Central Conference of American Rabbis and of the Massachusetts Board of Rabbis. Rabbi Roth's community participation includes the Massachusetts Department of Mental Health, Merrimack Valley Dialogues at Merrimack College, Interfaith Institute, St. Basil's Seminary and Jewish Family Services. His articles have appeared in several journals.

Mr. Krasnoo has taught law at Emerson College, Boston University Graduate School and Northeastern University. Most recently he taught criminal law and ethics at Massachusetts School of Law. He is a member of the Massachusetts, California and U.S. Supreme Court bars. His professional experience includes prosecutorial experience and appellate work. Mr. Krasnoo received a bachelor of arts degree from Harvard University, his law degree from the University of Chicago Law School and a master of arts degree from Northeastern. He lives in Andover with his wife, Joan, and two sons.

The evening will conclude with a discussion period in which all may participate. Refreshments will be served. The session is open to the community. There will be a small admission fee.

Brookridge collects food for needy

Brookridge Community Church is conducting a food drive for the poor and homeless in the Greater Lawrence area Sunday. Members of the community and church can bring Thanksgiving food items to West Elementary School on Beacon Street between 10 a.m. and noon. Food may be canned, frozen or fresh and will be given to the Lazarus House to be used in connection with its food for the needy program.

Gleaning, an exploration of the connection between the words "thanks" and "giving."

"Each of us wonders about the serious and confusing issues of life and the Christian faith," said Pastor William Watson.

The next two series will try to answer the questions "Is the Bible reliable and accurate?" and "Is Jesus for Real?" Rev. Watson said.

The services will use contemporary drama and music, as well as relevant messages to explore these topics.

Brookridge services are held at West Elementary School on Beacon Street Sundays at 10:30 a.m.

OBITUARIES

Marjorie P. Carson

Marjorie P. (Edwards) Carson, 84, director of theatrical productions in the Merrimack Valley for over 40 years, died Nov. 10 at Prescott House Nursing Home. Beginning in the late 1930s, Mrs. Carson worked with The Adventurers, an Andover group of actors who staged elaborate performances at the former Punchard High School. As recently as 1981 she worked on a production by the November Club, an Andover women's group.

In the early '30s, before moving to Andover, she operated a drama school in Providence, R.I. She directed adult and children's theater throughout the Merrimack Valley, and some of her happiest times were spent teaching in public schools in New Jersey, Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Massachusetts, relatives said.

Mrs. Carson was active in many social and civic organizations, including the Shawsheen Village Women's Club, the Children's Theater Workshop and the Home for Little Wanderers. She was also a deaconess at South Church for a number of years.

A native of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Mrs. Carson was the daughter of the late Professor James W. and Gertrude M. Pace.

Members of her family include two sons, William J. Edwards of Rockport and Douglas P. Edwards of Carlisle; four grandchildren, Jonathan and Elizabeth Edwards of Rockport and Adrienne and Charity Edwards of Carlisle; and a sister, Ruth Fuelhardt of Hummelstown, Pa.

A commemorative service will be held Saturday, Nov. 18, at 10 a.m. at South Church.

Down The Years

100 Years Ago — November 1889

Mrs. George Gould is spending a week with friends in Northampton.

Prof. and Mrs. Phelps have returned to their winter home. They will be heartily welcomed by their many warm friends on the hill.

Rev. Prof. Ryder has charge of the chapel service for the month of November. Prof. Peabody of Cambridge, is expected to preach on the next Sabbath.

The trench through the "willows" brought up the sticks and grass and debris buried more than a century ago, as perfect as on the day when it was buried beneath the gravel of the road-bed.

It is quite an interesting fact that during these pleasant November days, after several hard "freezes" the honey bees come in from their wanderings with their baskets full of pollen for their dishes.

As no flowers are to be found, the question naturally arises, where can they find this pollen? Perhaps it is not generally known that the shrub witch-hazel flowers late in the autumn, about the time after the leaves fall, and are plentiful with pollen.

The Shaw Bros., of West Andover are painting Mr. R. F. Hayes' home.

Miss Tullie Lawrence is quite ill. Dr. Lane of Billerica is attending her.

Miss Mattie Stark and Lucy Derrah attend the entertainment at Caledonian hall in Lawrence, Halloween. Miss Stark scored her usual brilliant execution on the piano.

The fine heard of nineteen young horses which arrived at "Stanley Farm" from a western ranch a few weeks ago is under the discipline of a skill trainer from Reading, Mass.

A purse of $75 was raised by subscription among the operatives of the C. K. Co. for the family of a fellow workman in his recent bereavement. It is a noticeable fact that the employees of this shop live up to the letter of the text: "For ye have the poor with you always and whenever ye will ye may do them good." Mark 14:7.

Miss Clara Bell is visiting friends in Boston.

Mrs. John Hill is visiting her daughter in Merrimack.

Harry Playden has been confined to the house for a few days by illness.

The village cricket club has hired the Locke field for the season of 1890.

75 Years Ago — November 1914

Miss Elezabeth Beane, the local telegraph operator, who is shortly to leave town, was pleasantly surprised at her boarding place on Chestnut street, on Thursday evening by the girls of the local telephone exchange. After expressing her thanks to the girls for their remembrance of her, a general social evening was spent, and a dainty buffet lunch served.

Abbott Village Lodge held an open meeting Monday evening which was addressed by two Boston advocates of the Woman's Suffrage cause. Past Templar Joseph Keith was chairman. After the speaker had finished they answered many questions which in turn brought out some interesting argument.

Teachers push for new pact

By Lisa A. Boudreau

This week the Andover school system is celebrating American Education week.

Andover teachers wish they were also celebrating a new contract. They have been working without one since Sept. 1.

One week ago Tuesday, 160 teachers, wearing "stop the bite on education" buttons, packed the School Committee meeting room.

Shelia Eckoff, president of the Andover Teachers' Association, who spoke at the meeting, said the teachers were there to show a united front. She told the committee that the teachers are growing impatient.

"The teachers are united in their determination to get a fair contract," she said.

A first-year teacher without experience, holding a bachelor's degree makes $19,154 a year in Andover. At the top of the pay scale, a teacher with 13 years or more experience and a master's degree can make anywhere from $34,000 to $39,000 each year, Mrs. Eckoff said.

At last week's meeting Mrs. Eckoff told the committee Andover teachers deserve a scale of compensation that will attract new teachers and keep those already teaching in the system. She criticized the School Committee for not providing a contract pay schedule with increases comparable to those in similar socioeconomic communities.

"We are talking about thousands of dollars in some instances," said Mrs. Eckoff earlier this week.

After Mrs. Eckoff finished, the teachers, who had been silent during her presentation, erupted in a continuous two minutes of applause. Mrs. Eckoff's speech caught the committee off guard, said Margo Tilghman, committee chair.

Mrs. Tilghman told the teachers the $570,000 cut from the town's educational budget, made in the wake of state funding cuts in August, "... has made the ability to come to a (contract negotiating) conclusion more difficult.

"We have at one point reached a stalemate in negotiations and looked for other ways to end that log jam," she added.

The School Committee and the teachers' bargaining committee met last Thursday, but the negotiating impasse was not overcome, said Mrs. Eckoff.

Earlier this week Mrs. Eckoff said the timing of last Tuesday's demonstration was meant to coincide with the kick-off of Education Week.

"The community needs to know we are working without a contract," she said Monday. "Money isn't the only factor, but it's the factor that needs to be resolved before the impasse can be broken," she said.

A private mediator has been hired to work with the two sides. A date is forthcoming and the two sides will share the cost, said Mrs. Tilghman.

Workshop stresses planning for volunteers

Dr. Donald L. Plambeck, director of the Institute for Community Leadership and Non-profit Management at Virginia Tech, Northern Virginia Graduate Center in Falls Church, Va., will conduct the third workshop in the BoardWALK Series sponsored by the Merrimack Valley United Fund on Nov. 20.

Called "Introduction to Strategic Planning," this workshop will focus on the key concepts of strategic planning for non-profits: the importance of clear articulation of values, mission and management principles, the critical nature of environmental analysis and how these factors influence goal setting.

Participants will learn what strategic planning has to offer the non-profit community and community at large and the activities that are carried out in strategic planning.

John J. Menzie Jr., executive director of the Lawrence Boys' Club, who recently attended a session with Dr. Plambeck, said "He was excellent."

Dr. Plambeck began his career in non-profit management in 1971 when he became the first director of United Way of America's National Academy of Volunteerism. He joined the Virginia Tech Center for Volunteer Development in 1986 as an associate professor.

The BoardWALK series of 12 workshops began in April. "Everyone should be encouraged to participate," said Shirley Cyronis, executive director of the Visiting Nurse Association in Lowell. "I will make good use of the reference material."

The 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. session will be open to staff and volunteers from non-profit agencies in the Merrimack Valley. Call the United Fund office in Lawrence for information.

Committee to eye Collins Center

The new Committee to Reorganize the J. Everett Collins Center will meet tomorrow night at 7:30 in Memorial Hall Library's activity room.

One of the topics the group will address is diverting money from Collins Center ticket sales to the schools.

Members of the schools' parent-teacher organizations and the Board of Selectmen have been invited to the meeting.

The Greater Lawrence Musicians Union Band Local 372 started Veterans Day activities in Spring Grove Cemetery with the national anthem.

The echo of gunfire could be heard throughout Andover Saturday morning as a ceremonial volley was carried out on Ballardvale Green.

Veterans Richard DuLong and Thomas Leonard salute the monument on Ballardvale Green after placing wreaths in memory of their fallen comrades.

Cmdr. John Doherty (center) of the Veterans of Foreign Wars is flanked by fellow officers as he oversees Veterans Day ceremonies. Cmdr. Doherty said the Spring Grove observance starts at the 11th hour on the 11th day of the 11th month — just like the armistice that ended World War I.

OPINION

Will the good news keep on coming?

What a time it's been the past few weeks!

We keep pinching ourselves to make sure all this good news isn't just a dream.

The Berlin Wall, for 29 years a symbol of Communism's worst repression and its most glowing failure, has fallen.

We who have not grown up separated from loved ones and countrymen by concrete, barbed wire, land mines and armed guards can only guess how that must feel from the images our newspapers and TV sets have brought us.

And powerful images they have been: People of all ages climbing on the wall, dancing on the wall, embracing on the wall, chopping at the wall, weeping on the wall. How about the old man being lifted by a young stranger so he could take a few whacks at the wall with a tack hammer?

While East Germany suddenly drops travel restrictions and talks of open elections, we look back over the past year or so and see what has happened elsewhere in the Soviet bloc. The Soviet Union has freer elections, a better enfranchised press and legislative bodies that at least somewhat represent the people who elect them.

Poland has formed the Soviet bloc's first non-communist government, and there is distinct movement in Hungary and Czechoslovakia.

Here at home, New Haven, Seattle and New York last week joined the ranks of American cities with black mayors. The new mayor of Miami is a Hispanic. Voters in Virginia, where blacks were enslaved 125 years ago, have elected a black governor.

We take this as more evidence that democracy's real power — the vote — is being used by people to whom it previously has been denied, or who once tossed it off as a waste.

This all serves to make us confident that with a little help, those things which disenfranchise people — be they governments or ideas or concrete walls — eventually will fall.

And it gives us some hope that this troubled century will make quite an effort to redeem itself before it ends.

Just A Thought

By Bob Finneran

An Andover tradition continued last Saturday with more than the usual turnout of residents to join with veterans in paying Veteran's Day tribute to those who served in all wars.

Here in Andover, however, veterans and families traditionally turn out to remember those who served their country.

The holiday began as Armistice Day commemorating the end of World War I at the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month in 1918. Andover had a gala celebration for the returning servicemen of that war, and has paused to join in tribute to those whose supreme sacrifice in that war and the ones that followed have kept our country free.

This year, Andover invited the youth of the community to be part of the observance, conducting an essay contest for Andover High students.

The best presentations on "What Veteran's Day Means To Me" were the principal speakers at the service at Ballardvale Green where tribute is paid to those who served in the Korean and Vietnam wars.

Speakers were AHS seniors Rick Bertetti and Lesley E. Brammer.

Being mindful of the sacrifices made for the preservation of liberty at this youthful age bodes well for this community.

The town's veterans groups, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Disabled American Veterans, were joined by their auxiliary members at both the main service at the Legion monument in Spring Grove Cemetery and Ballardvale Green.

What seemed more important, however, was the larger than usual attendance at both services. Weather-wise it was a beautiful day, which lent itself to being elsewhere, but these people took the time to participate.

The attitude here was far different than that held by some in North Andover where a big football game was scheduled for 10 a.m.

Some school officials asked that the services be postponed, while the veterans organization which conducts the parade and service asked that the game be delayed about 30 minutes.

Kickoff remained at 10 a.m. and crowd noise managed to interrupt the services.

Those whose interests seem to lie primarily in athletics must have lost sight of the bottom line — the short tribute to veterans has as primary importance the assurance that young people can pursue their athletic endeavors. Thirty minutes is not a lifetime to football, as it was to many young men on the battlefield.

THE PUBLIC FORUM

Recycling

By Virginia Cole

Glass and plastic bins will be at the West Middle School parking lot on Shawsheen Road. New times are 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Recycling programs are proceeding very well at Andover schools due to Andover Recycling's Joyce Ringleb with the cooperation of school official, teachers, custodians and, the most important, students.

Paper is being saved at the high school and West Middle School. Newspapers, magazines, computer paper, all kinds of paper are collected twice a month by Greg Bernier, the regular paper contractor for the town.

Al Cayot, science department head at the high school, and West Middle School teachers Miss Eichner, Mrs. Beauchesne and Mr. Herdenrich deserve our thanks for bringing the students under their tutelage into the realities of the recycling world of their future.

Pike School is also recycling paper with our cooperation.

Plastic is being recycled from all the public school cafeterias in town. This project was developed last year with the help of David White who picks up plastic from the schools twice a week, Plastics Again, the firm in Leominster where it is sold and, of course, the very helpful custodians.

Plastic trays, plates and cups are cleaned and stacked in appropriate containers by the students. About 100 pounds are collected each week, and while this may not sound like very much, 100 pounds of polystyrene is a great deal in volume of trash.

Mrs. Ringleb is working with an eighth-grade group at West Middle School on an environment unit that covers science, social studies and language arts and involves projects of many kinds. The group will take field trips to see recycling in working: to Atlantic Paper to see paperboard made from recycled paper and to Plastics Again to watch new plastic products made from old.

These students are also planning presentations for second-graders at Sanborn and West elementary schools.

Miss Flaherty will show Andover Recycling's film The Trash Monster to West Elementary third-grade students.

State office has no fat to cut

Editor, Townsman:

There has been a lot of discussion recently in the press and in the Legislature about "cutting the fat" and "eliminating waste" in state government. In the last couple of days, that discussion has boiled down to cutting three executive offices. The savings from these cuts are illusory and the so-called efficiencies to be accomplished through consolidation would be a bad joke — except that it's not very funny.

The Executive Office of Labor has no full-time lobbyist and no press secretary; I am concerned now that since we started this office in 1983, we have focused too much of our attention on doing the real work at hand and too little on exactly the kind of self-promotion the tax-cutters decry.

In fact, our very small operation has achieved real results that matter to all the citizens of this commonwealth who work for a living. Just recently this office stopped legislation that would have allowed employers to move from paying their employees weekly to issuing semi-monthly or monthly paychecks. We insisted on keeping the current law because we understand that most working people live paycheck to paycheck, week to week.

We've worked to reform the workers' compensation law. One of the effects of that reform is that injured workers now receive a cost-of-living allowance to keep up with inflation.

I have personally visited hundreds of plant closings sites all over the state and I am proud of the efforts of my staff and line agencies in developing programs that genuinely help people facing the devastating loss of a plant closing can be. We've worked in hard-pressed communities to rebuild an industrial base after these great losses and we've accomplished some real results in places like Springfield, Greenfield and Fall River. People who have difficulty reading and writing have learned basic skills at the worksite through programs we've developed and which have been hailed as a national model.

More than 700 calls per month come into our office from people who need help in figuring out how government can work for them. We hear from workers whose employers have failed to pay them or who are asking that they work unreasonable hours. And we have worked our referral and follow-up systems to make sure that these people don't get lost in any bureaucracy. We also hear from workers, including pregnant women, who have just found out that their employer has cut off health insurance benefits and from people who have been fired unjustly. Sadly, many of these people have no redress under current laws, but we are fighting for legislation to help people with problems like this.

These are only a few of the issues we are involved in. All of the issues our office addresses affect all working people throughout the commonwealth.

I am proud to serve as secretary of the Executive Office of Labor and all our citizens can be proud of the work my hard-working staff of nine people has done.

Paul J. Eustace
Secretary of Labor

Proud of the marching band

Editor, Townsman:

On Nov. 5 the Andover High School Marching Band competed in the New England Scholastic Band Association's annual competition.

The 36 young men and women represented Andover very well by not only winning their Class II Division, but they were also awarded the only gold medal in Division I and II.

Marc Keroack and his staff have worked since last August preparing these talented young musicians for competitions and their half-time shows at the football games.

As a first-time band parent, I am extremely proud of the accomplishments achieved this year. We all too often hear only negative things about today's youth. If the band members are any indication of the caliber of our young people, then we can all be proud.

The democrat wagon which was stolen from the barn of J. Warren Moar in West Andover some time ago, has been recovered.

Chief Smith, who has been on the lookout for the wagon, received information which led to its discovery in North Andover on Sunday.

On Tuesday a dozen women came to the Guild House to work for the town relief, and several sent for sewing to take home. This is a gratifying start and it is hoped that the interest will spread. Next week a list of the Red Cross garments which are to be packed up this week will be published.

Charles Newton, the horse and cattle inspector, has posted notices in all parts of the town regarding the treatment of hoof and mouth disease. His is keeping strict watch in Andover and has found no signs of the disease locally.

Tickets are already in sale for the annual Burns concert which will be held in January by Calvin Johnston. Dancing will be enjoyed until two o'clock after the entertainment.

The Ladies Aid society of the West Church announces that the net proceeds of the supper and sale held last Friday night amounted to more than $200.

The first in the series of the R.C.O.A. concerts will be given in the Town Hall on December 4, when the Hussar quartet will entertain.

The regular meeting of the Pythian Sisters was held Wednesday evening. Mrs. Gardner spoke interestingly on Woman's Suffrage.

Andover will be in with North Andover and Lawrence's Ward 1 (Prospect Hill) in a double district, or with North Andover, Ward 1 and all except precinct 3 of Methuen in triple district, if present redistricting plans of County Commissioner Fred Butler are carried out.

Besieged on all sides by requests for advantageous redistricting, the special committee headed by Mr. Butler has a difficult task ahead of it.

The Andover Red Cross wishes to remind the townspeople that they may share with their less fortunate neighbors on Thanksgiving so that everyone may be assured of a happy day.

The Red Cross packs and distributes to the needy the Thanksgiving baskets, the contents of which are given by the generous citizens of Andover.

Donations of food, such as canned goods, fruit, potatoes or other vegetables should be delivered at the South Congregational church on Monday.

"The basic element of good citizenship is having a job," said Dr. Warren Seifert at the joint meeting of the Andover League of Women Voters and the Parent Teacher association in Memorial auditorium last night.

Professor Seifert pointed out that the problem of teaching the young good citizenship can be delt with partly by the schools.

Solicitors are now active in the various districts in town enrolling members for the Red Cross Annual Roll Call. The quota is $5,000 to cover the program for 1940.

to an announcement from Archie D. Maclaren, president of the Andover Chamber of Commerce.

Still $1,800 in debt for lights purchased three years ago for a price in excess of $3,000, the Chamber needs some $2,600 to pay for expenses involved in providing the holiday lighting display, Haseltine said.

By Rick Harrison

It's official.

The 1989 Andover High varsity football team's defensive unit will forever be known as the "Nasty 11."

"You (The Townsman) coined it and that's what we've dubbed ourselves," said AHS defensive coordinator Joe Iarrobino. "The posters are already hanging in the locker room. We were looking for a name to identify the defense, and now we have it."

And the secret to the Nasty 11's unbridled success this fall?

"In 20 years of coaching high school football I've never had a group that hit as hard or played as aggressively," said Iarrobino. "They're extremely coachable and very disciplined.

"You have to play your position to be successful on defense," explained Iarrobino. "There's an old football saying: 'if you chase ducks you're going to get burned.' You have to stay home."

Other major ingredients in the successful brew are enthusiasm and camaraderie.

"These kids are very team-oriented and supportive of one another," said Iarrobino. "The Nasty 11 practice hard and have a lot of pride in accomplishment and enthusiasm for what they're doing. They enjoy playing."

"We put up posters and pictures (of the opposing team) in the locker room every week. And every Sunday night the

Andover (7-1-0) gears for North Andover (8-0), Central (9-0)

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High football team is about to experience "one wicked week."

It's Christmas, Disneyland and winning Megabucks all rolled into one.

Of course that's an exaggeration, but the prospect of what lies ahead for the Golden Warriors tomorrow and next Thursday begs for hyperbole.

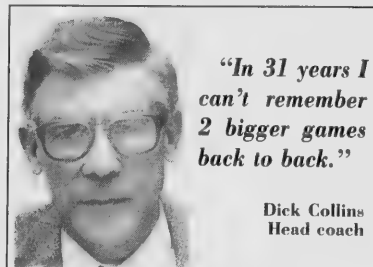

The difficulty of the task, trying to beat North Andover and Central Catholic within a six-day period, cannot be overstated. But win, lose or draw it should be exciting.

"In 31 years I can't remember two bigger games back to back," said AHS Head Coach Dick Collins. "Never have we faced two undefeated teams in succession this late in the season. To play an 8-0 team and then a 9-0 team the last two games is almost inconceivable."

The fun begins tomorrow night at Love-ly Field (7 p.m. kickoff), when the Warriors lug their impressive 7-1-0 record, seven straight victories, four straight shutouts, six shutouts in seven games, and 154-25 overall scoring edge into combat against non-league archrival North Andover.

The Scarlet Knights will counterpunch with a perfect 8-0-0 record and a Cape Ann League championship already assured. NA is fresh off a huge 7-0 victory over previously-unbeaten Amesbury, and is about to complete its own week of unbridled emotional intensity.

Although North Andover is not in the Merrimack Valley Conference, the game counts in the league standings and a victory is mandatory for Andover to retain a shot at sharing the MVC championship.

A possible Super Bowl berth also hangs in the balance for both teams, Andover in Eastern Mass. Division 2 and North Andover in Division 3.

Should the Golden Warriors win tomorrow night, the Thanksgiving morning clash with Central Catholic (9-0-0) becomes of paramount importance.

A victory over Central would then assure the title share and put Andover in the driver's seat for a berth opposite Plymouth in the 18th annual Bowl Game Saturday, Dec. 2 at Sullivan Stadium in Foxboro.

"I'd say if we win both games our (Bowl) chances are as good as anyone's," said Collins. "At least 50-50. But you won't catch me sitting down trying to figure it out. There are too many variables."

defensive team, about 18 kids, comes to my home to review the game film," said Iarrobino. "We pick out things that were done wrong — and things that were done right. The kids have a Coke, a few chips and get to know each other better. It's almost like a family."

The biggest surprise among the Nasty 11? No contest.

"Joe Licata didn't even play for us last season," said Iarrobino. "He couldn't. He had to sit out a year after transferring from Austin Prep. He's 6-2, 210 pounds and he's quick as lightning. He's made a big difference in the middle."

Defense

Whether this is the best defensive team in Andover football history is open to debate.

Statistically the parsimonious pack is establishing new school records left and right.

"I guess we'll have a better assessment where this group stands after the next two games," said Head Coach Dick Collins. "But right now I'd have to rate them right up there. I never expected anything quite this dramatic when the season started. I knew we had a good football team, but never imagined we'd put together six shutouts in a seven-game stretch."

"The defensive coaches have done a fantastic job."

They've put together a unit that has a great deal of pride in what they do," explained Collins.

"There is excellent spirit, unity and good communication between myself and those coaches. Not that we didn't have all that in previous years, but this season it's all come together perfectly."

"They've mixed up the defenses quite a bit this year, but stayed with the same basic defensive package. The kids all know exactly where to be and what to do. It's a good set-up and it's been taught well."

Fifteen players have been primarily responsible for executing the defense. Rotating in three interior positions on the five-man front have been cat-quick nose-guard Joe Licata (two interceptions), tackles Joe Marinaro and Erik Greenstein, and Ryan Beal.

Shuffling in and out at the two defensive end positions are Hunter Lochmann, Brian Donnellan and Brett Hammond.

Alternating at inside linebacker are Dave Tucker, Glenn Driscoll, Paul Lembo and Stefan Fodor.

The cornerbacks are Dave Blank and Peter Reming, the safety John Thompson, and Curt Solomon (two interceptions) has also seen considerable time in the defensive backfield.

The team is close to the school record for interceptions in a season, and individually Driscoll leads in thefts with five.

Lochmann, Licata and Tucker are tri-heads of the sack pack.

Warriors ready for one wicked week

Collins, of course, is an expert at the mathematical machinations of the ratings system after directing Andover to three straight Super Saturday appearances in 1973, '74 and '75.

"A lot of it is out of our hands. Every time Wilmington wins it hurts us, because we don't play them this year and we're losing valuable opponent points. Everything could turn around on one upset Thanksgiving morning. We can't be concerned about it until — or if — it actually happens."

North Andover

"Because there's so little time between games we've actually split our practices almost 50-50 preparing for North Andover and Central Catholic," said Collins.

"We've scouted North Andover pretty thoroughly, and I'm sure with us playing almost every Friday night they've seen all our games."

"I hope they're not better than they were two years ago (15-14 NA win), but judging from all I've seen and heard they may be."

"The key to beating them starts with stopping their quarterback (John Gafny). He runs the option extremely well, and aside from Chelmsford and Methuen we haven't faced many option teams this year."

"In order to be successful with the option, however, you need a good inside threat to keep the defense honest," explained Collins. "They have that in (full-back Sean) Fitzpatrick."

"They also have several other strong running backs, good receivers (led by Ryan McLaughlin) and size in the line."

"Defensively they're tough. Amesbury operates the run-and-shoot, but North Andover shot them right down."

In fact, the Scarlet Knights can almost match Andover's stinginess as they've yielded only 31 points in eight games.

Collins is credited with popularizing and refining the run-and-shoot attack, but noted that "we're only a part-time run-and-shoot team now."

Central Catholic

The cleat is on the other foot this year, so to speak.

In past Novembers Andover has often entered this final game with an excellent record, only to be upset by the Red Raiders. The games are usually close and low scoring.

It was CCHS, in fact, that put the only blemish on Andover's regular-season record during the Super Bowl years. The Golden Warriors went 39-0-1 during a 40-game stretch, with prohibitive underdog Central battling Andover to a 6-6 tie in 1974 during a driving rainstorm that turned Veterans' Stadium into a mud-bowl.

This year's game is again in Lawrence, with the kickoff one week from today at 10 a.m.

"Central is as good as any football team the league's had since I've been here," stated Collins. "They have the perfect offensive balance that every coach dreams of achieving. They run a lot more than they throw, but can hurt you equally either way."

The Red Raiders have two shutouts in their last three starts, have not allowed more than nine points in any game, and have outscored the opposition 175-34.

Ironically two of the Red Raiders' brightest stars are from Andover, quarterback Chris Lane and offensive tackle-defensive end Sean Finneran. Both are the third members of their family to excel on the gridiron for CCHS.

"The two keys to Central are Finneran and (tight end Matt) Goulet," offered Collins. "That's not to take anything away from Lane or the three running backs (Chris Kalil, Scott Nadeau and Luis Garcia). Every single one of them can hurt you."

"Lane worries me. He's a dangerous thrower (nine TD passes) and he runs very well. They also have probably the best group of power runners I've seen on one team. They run the wing-T and shotgun effectively, have some excellent outside receivers (Mark Conway), and are probably better defensively than they are offensively."

Collins then returned to his least favorite subject, Goulet and Finneran.

"They say Goulet is 6-3, 220. But when he stands next to Finneran he dwarfs him, and Finneran is huge. He (Goulet) looks at least 6-6 and 270 pounds to me."

Seniors to be recognized

The Boosters Club will recognize seniors on the football team before Friday night's game.

Seniors will be introduced at 6:15 p.m., and will line up on the 50-yard line with their parents.

The seniors will then present flowers to their mothers.

Collins, however, has ultimate confidence in his team's ability to contain both North Andover and Central.

Layoff

Having a week off is a mixed blessing, and whether the respite helped or hurt won't be known until about 9 p.m. tomorrow night.

"There's always the danger of losing momentum if you've been playing well, as we have," admitted Collins. "But it also gives us a chance to heal some bumps and bruises. We'll be healthier because of it."

Volleyball girls bumped from tourney

By Rick Harrison

The most successful girls' volleyball season in Andover High history came to a close last week when the Lady Warriors dropped a 3-0 decision to state Division 1 semifinalist Chelmsford High in the Eastern Mass. North Sectional semifinals at Chelmsford.

Among other things, the 1989 Andover squad set records for most victories in a single season (17), fewest losses (5) and best winning percentage (.773).

The second place finish in the Large School Division of the Merrimack Valley Conference (behind undefeated Chelmsford) was the highest ever, and Andover beat Billerica for the first time in its nine-year existence.

The Lady Warriors also equalled their deepest advancement into the tournament, matching last fall when they defeated Greater-Lowell Regional before losing to eventual state champ Stoneham.

Andover had blasted Boston Latin Academy 3-0 in the quarterfinal round earlier last week.

Coach George Sullivan's team has now gone 30-12 over the past two years, 17-5 this season and 13-7 in '88.

"We think we've reached the point where volleyball is an established sport in Andover," said Sullivan. "But there is still a long way we can go. Watching some of the other tournament teams in the Sectional finals, like Quincy and Brookline, was an education. The skill level of those teams is tremendous."

The Warriors graduate eight of 11 seniors from this year's varsity, including All-Conference selections Cate Doherty, Grace Park and Laura Hebeisen.

Other seniors who have helped move the program to its current peak are Kim Daley, Kristen Johnson, Melissa Salazar, Carrie Lumley and DeeDee Castignoli.

While a lot of talent will be gone in 1990, Sullivan and assistant Coach Art Iworsley aren't crying.

The junior varsity is 35-6 over the past two years, including 17-3 this fall, and a half-dozen promising prospects from that team will join three returning varsity veterans.

Varsity players expected to form next year's nucleus are junior Nicole Thompson, junior Ayanna Littrean and sophomore Lea Conserva.

Top JV performers this year included juniors Maureen Maginnis and Christina Chunias, sophomores Cara Conserva and Stephanie Kupa, and freshman Kerry Hagerly.

"There are a lot of good young players in the program," said Sullivan, "and we'll be looking to a number of underclassmen next year."

Chelmsford, 3-0

The only major goal Andover didn't achieve this year was beating Chelmsford.

But then again, through its first 22 matches, no one had found a way to shackle the 1985 and '86 state champs.

This season's score: JVs 244, opponents 21

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High junior varsity football team recently completed a perfect 8-0-0 season, shutting out its last five opponents and finishing with a spectacular 244-21 scoring edge on the enemy.

Leading the way offensively for the junior varsity squad were sophomore running back Jim Landry, quarterbacks Matt Perry, Matt Daniels and Jason McCue, backs Greg Dyer and Jason Hastings, and receivers Chris Davis and Andy Carleton.

Landry, who has scored at least one touchdown in almost every game, had a field day against Haverhill when he ran back a kickoff for six points and caught two TD strikes from Matt Perry.

Matt Daniels also threw well in that game, while Jason McCue had one of his best days against Lowell.

Greg Dyer was a specialist in two-point conversion rushes.

Chris Davis and Andy Carleton finished as the top receivers, and both also played exceptional defense at end and safety respectively.

Anchoring Andover's interior line were center Ryan Kelly, who doubled as a linebacker on defense, and two-way tackles Garrett Ferris and Jim Weilan.

Other defensive standouts were Landry and linebacker Rob Dalton, while running back Dan Feeley also had a superb season punting the ball.

Volleyball girls bumped by Chelmsford came against the Lions, who won the tourney clash 16-14, 15-4 and 15-5.

"We were leading the whole way in the first game," said Sullivan. "We had it and let it get away."

Andover raced to a quick 6-2 advantage and, after Chelmsford pulled even 6-6, regained leads of 9-6, 11-8, 12-10 and 14-12.

But the Lions' Patty Trudel gained control of the serve at 12-14 and served out the game, scoring four straight points.

"You could see our kids starting to get a little uptight when Chelmsford came back to win," said Sullivan. "You could sense their anxiety. I turned to Arthur (Iworsley) and said 'oh-oh.' I knew we were in trouble."

"Andover served well early in the match, and took away our serve-receive," said Chelmsford Coach Dana Howe. "But once we switched sides (of the court) we seemed to play much better. Everything began falling back into place, and we started to capitalize on Andover's overpassing."

"Our girls took themselves out of the second game," said Sullivan. "It went to 5-0, 9-0 and finally 12-0 before we scored a point."

"At 6-0 I knew we had 'em," said Howe. "They had those looks on their faces. They weren't quite sure what to do against us."

"We played them tough the third game, although the score (15-5) doesn't show it," said Sullivan. "It was seesaw for awhile, but then they went on a 7-0 run that killed us. The hole (in the floodgates) was there and we couldn't stop it. For every point we scored they were scoring two."

"I think our stamina paid off in the third game," offered Howe. "Andover looked a little tired. I think they were working harder for their points."

"Our girls played hard and at least we know we lost to a better team," noted Sullivan. "If we had been beaten by an inferior team it would have hurt more."

Andover contributes to all-star field hockey team

By Rick Harrison

Two Andover High field hockey players were selected to the 1989 Merrimack Valley League All-Conference team, another was chosen for the MVC All-Star squad, and all three participated in the league All-Star Game under frigid and windy conditions last Sunday at Veterans Stadium in Lawrence.

Sixteen girls from the nine MVC teams were named All-Conference, the highest honor, while 14 others were designated All-Stars by vote of the MVC coaches.

Andover All-Conference choices are senior midfielder and Co-Capt. Lisa Campbell, and senior defender Amy Heislein, while senior defender and Co-Capt. Andrea Napolitano was picked as an All-Star.

It's no surprise that the three Lady Warriors selected are basically defensive players, because defense is what keyed Andover's 6-11-1 season. AHS won and lost several 1-0 games and probably would have finished much higher had the offense been more consistent.

In Sunday's 'Star Game, Campbell and Heislein's All-Conference team white-washed Napolitano's All-Star crew 2-0.

All three AHS representatives turned in solid performances.

Danielle Luongo of Tyngsboro, who finished her senior season with 37 goals and 54 total points, was chosen Conference MVP and Tyngsboro's Irmin Pierce was selected MVC "Coach-of-the-Year."

Tyngsboro and Lawrence High qualified for the Eastern Mass. Tournament, No. 2 seed Tyngsboro advancing to the North Sectional Division 2 title game before bowing to two-time defending state champ

Watertown 3-2. Lawrence was ousted by Acton-Boxboro in the Division 1 quarterfinals.

Timothy Witman places as top skier

This is his third year on the varsity hockey squad.

Kristen Hubbell leads local swimmers at sectionals

By Rick Harrison

Junior Kristen Hubbell earned points in three different events to lead the Andover High competitors at last weekend's Eastern Mass. North Sectional Girls' Swimming and Diving Championships at Regis College in Weston.

Ms. Hubbell, the versatile Lady Warrior standout, placed sixth in the 50-yard freestyle with a 27.00 clocking, seventh in the 100 backstroke at 1:07.0, and swam a leg for the fifth place 200 medley relay quartet (2:05.5) that consisted of sophomore Michelle McCarthy, senior Tri-Capt. Tracey Pool, Tri-Capt. Erika Sudui-ko and Hubbell.

Rounding out the AHS scorers was McCarthy who touched eighth in the 100 breaststroke (1:14.4).

Andover will send four individuals and two relay teams to the season-ending All-State Championship Meet this weekend.

The meet was originally scheduled for Northeastern University, but the site was subject to change because of an outbreak of measles at the NU campus last week.

Individuals, and their events, at the All-States will be Kristen Hubbell (50 free, 100 backstroke), Michelle McCarthy (100 breaststroke), Erika Suduiko (50 free) and senior Tri-Capt. Mia Kearins (diving).

Joining the medley relay team of Hubbell, McCarthy, Pool and Suduiko will be the 400 freestyle relay foursome of freshman Christine DerAnanian, junior Allyson Bates, senior Bryn McGovern and junior Eliza Tilghman.

The strength of the Merrimack Valley Conference was evident by the fact league dual meet champion Lowell High won the Eastern Mass. North Sectional team title. Andover did not finish among the top 10 in the team standings.

Holiday race helps two youth programs

The Merrimack Valley Striders' annual Feaster Five will be held Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 23, from Andover Town Offices, Bartlet Street, at 8:30 a.m.

The course runs on paved back roads with a few challenging hills. The top three finishers in all age groups will receive awards and the first 700 finishers under 45 minutes will receive pies.

Proceeds go to the Massachusetts Special Olympics and the MVS Youth program. For further information, call Bill Pennington.

Fluoride pellet

Researchers have found that a fluoride-containing pellet, about the size of an aspirin tablet, can be attached inconspicuously to a back tooth and provide a slow, continuous release of fluoride as a cavity-fighting measure.

Soccer girls nipped in tourney bid

By Rick Harrison

This certainly wasn't the way it was planned.

But when the members of the Andover High girls' varsity soccer team shook the initial disappointment of a 3-2 tournament loss to Winchester last week, they stepped back and savored all they've accomplished both this year and over the last four seasons.

Winchester, eliminated by Andover each of the past two years in the Eastern Mass. Division 1 North Sectional semifinals, turned the tables last week with a 3-2 victory over the Lady Warriors in the very same round.

The setback brought an end to another spectacular season for Andover, which shut the books on a 17-2-1 campaign.

When the season began Andover had the added pressure of being ranked No. 3 in New England and No. 7 nationally in a high school poll conducted by "USA Today" newspaper.

The Lady Warriors lived up to their billing, winning a third straight Merrimack Valley Conference championship, a fifth consecutive league title overall (Cape Ann League and Independent League in 1985 and '86), and maintaining a ranking of 20th in the country.

Fourteen Graduates

Andover will graduate 14 seniors from this team, most of whom were full three-year veterans with the program.

The more familiar names, all of whom will undoubtedly move on to bigger and better things in college, include goaltender Nicole Ricci, midfielder Kathy Doran, forward Suzanne Giannely, fullback Brenna Cronin and sweeperback Andrea Duffy.

"Also deserving every bit as much credit are midfielders Jodi Saunders and Michelle Vetrano, fullback Michelle DeStefano, stopperback Lisa Berberian, forward Erin Lynch, backup keeper Andrea Georgian, halfbacks Gwen Duff and Kara Slavin, and forward Jen Sonntag," said Coach Loschi.

It's hard to feel sorry for the Lady Warriors, however, as six regular varsity players will return to form next year's nucleus. And they'll be joined by the best from Coach Karl Lippman's second consecutive 17-1-0 junior varsity squad and a successful freshman team.

Winchester, 3-2

The Sachems, who may have played a little over their heads, were seeded No. 2 and Andover No. 3.

The past two years when these teams met the games were in Andover, the Lady Warriors winning 1-0 in an overtime shootout and 2-0 in regulation time.

"The biggest difference this time around is the game was played in Winchester," said Loschi. "They're obviously a good club (19-1-1 after the victory), with plenty of speed and depth.

"We've developed a strong rivalry between the two towns, and even before the season started some people were wondering what round of the tournament Andover and Winchester would meet. It was almost inevitable."

Winchester, outshot by Andover, took an early 1-0 lead before Anne Murnane tied it with her team-high 14th goal midway through the first half.

Kathy Doran, who finished as the team scoring leader, fed Murnane the set-up pass and watched her take the ball on the bounce and scissors kicked it (Pele style) back over her head and past the Sachems' startled goaltender.

Winchester freshman Jill Kelley gave the winners the lead for good late in the half, and early in the second half freshman Kathy Bussell netted the eventual game-winner.

Kathy Doran's 13th goal, unassisted with five minutes left, made it 3-2 as her 25-yard drive sailed over the Winchester goalie's head.

The Lady Warriors applied plenty of pressure in the closing minutes, but Winchester held on for the victory.

Ace netminder Nicole Ricci, who had nine shutouts this year, finished with 11 saves.

Kathy Doran finished with 13 goals, 13 assists, 26 points and Anne Murnane 14 goals, 11 assists, 25 points.

Andover defeated Bishop Fenwick (4-1) and Arlington (2-0) earlier in the tournament.

Audi Receives Best Score Ever Recorded In Ten Years Of Government Safety Tests.

Every year, for the last ten years, the United States government takes brand new cars on a little test drive. And smashes them into a 50-ton wall at 35 MPH. The government then ranks each car by its ability to protect its driver in the event of an accident. This year one such car, an Audi 100, did what no other car — no Mercedes Benz, no Volvo, no BMW, ever did in the history of the test. The Audi received the best score ever recorded.

Which is even more remarkable when you consider that the Audi beat the second best score by more than a twofold margin.

The secret to Audi's success? Inspired engineering, to be sure. Including a driver-side air bag. And Audi's uniquely designed self-tensioning front seat belts. An exclusive combination that made crash test history. And set a new safety standard for all other cars to follow.

BUSINESS PROFILESPermanent Waves Unisex Salon

l. to r. Gail Bonin, Susan Simard, Judy DeLuca, Wendy Duquette and Priscilla Hebert

The staff of Permanent Waves Unisex Salon as well as their customers are delighted to be back in the town of Andover after two-and-a-half years in Lawrence. Their new salon is located at 6 Railroad Avenue, next to Trainstop Toys.

The team at Permanent Waves Unisex Salon and Critique Make-up Artistry's uncompromising standard of professionalism and continuing education, has not only brought them success, but has given their clients utmost satisfaction.

Permanent Waves has gained an excellent reputation within the community. Outside their busy salon schedule, Judy DeLuca and Susan Simard find time to be teachers at Chippendale's Finishing and Modeling School in North Andover. Judy and Susan have worked with contestants from Miss Hampton Beach and Mrs. Massachusetts, to name a few. They are also the exclusive hairdresser and make-up artist for the Miss Merrimack Valley Pageant.

In correlation with the national cosmetology month campaign celebrated in October, Judy and Susan were special interest teachers at Northern Essex Community College. They have welcomed back Priscilla Hebert from a pregnancy leave of absence and welcomed aboard Wendy Duquette and Gail Bonin as new members of the staff.

Being a true full service Matrix Salon, they have added Matrix Skin care. These spectacular products deal directly with what's happening to skin in today's world. These products are simple, quick and more efficient than any other skin care product today. Remember: Permanent Waves says "Your expectations will be fulfilled with our expertise".

They are open Tuesday through Saturday.

Cross country ends season on upswing

By Rick Harrison

Strong performances by seniors Jon Bicknell, Scott O'Leary and Michelle Toth enabled the Andover High boys' and girls' varsity cross country teams to bring the 1989 season to a successful close at last weekend's Eastern Mass. Interscholastic Cross Country Championship Meet at Franklin Park in Dorchester.

The Golden Warrior boys finished eighth and the girls 13th in 28-school Division 2 fields.

This showing, coupled with solid efforts in the Northern Area and State Coaches Meets and coincidental three-meet win streaks to cap the regular Merrimack Valley Conference season, bodes well for the future.

Andover will graduate several top-notch harriers from both teams, but hopefully the winning attitude started by former Coach Gerry Grasso and continued by current skipper Leo Lafond will carry over to 1990 and beyond.

Seniors on the boys' squad included Bicknell, O'Leary, Mike Kelly and Dana Orlando, and on the girls' side Michelle Toth, Katie Boness and Amy Morrissey.

Eastern Mass. Meet

Jon Bicknell and Scott O'Leary crossed the finish line one stride apart, Bicknell 39th in 17:39 and O'Leary 40th in 17:41 for the 3.1 mile Franklin Park course.

Dave Bakulski helped AHS to eighth with his individual 56th place among a field of almost 200 runners, clocking 18:04, while junior Bryan Smith was 91st in 18:37, junior Tim Parker 128th in 19:17, Dana Orlando 134th in 19:28, and junior Matt Orlando 139th in 19:34.

Michelle Toth matched Bicknell's 39th place by finishing in 21:44 over the same 3.1 mile layout.

Katie Boness was 67th in 22:48, junior Maureen Mitchell 89th in 23:36, junior Eve LaRochelle 90th in 23:37, sophomore Heather McNemar 112th in 23:50, and sophomore Jen Ashlock 120th in 24:43.

Small but quick: Pee Wees solid at 12-2-1

The Andover Pee Wee A hockey team, playing in the Valley League and Dual State League, sports an overall record of 12 wins, 3 losses and 1 tie.

Andover skates three forward lines composed of Ryan Moynihan centering Tim McGovern and Scott Munroe; David Wartman centering Ryan Jacobson and Marc Escott; and Jeff Pothier centering Kom Felago and Dana DiFiore. The defense has been ably handled by David Bailey, Brian Kwon, Danny Hansberry and Peter Volpe. Peter Afarian and Jason Veilleux have split goaltending duties.

Ryan Moynihan leads the team in scoring with 27 goals and 24 assists for a total of 51 points. Scott Munroe leads in assists with 17 along with 14 goals. Tim McGovern has 10 assist with 11 goals. Other top scorers are Jeff Pothier (17) and Ryan Jacobson (13).

Andover's small, but excellent-skating team has outmaneuvered its larger opponents with solid team play and disciplined positional hockey. The defense has been a strong point, allowing a minimum of good scoring chances and the goaltenders have limited opposing teams to an average of 2.3 goals per game while fashioning four shutouts in 16 games. The offense has provided 108 goals for an average of just under seven per game.

Tom Felago has been an impressive playmaker while Dana DiFiore has done it with his hustle. Marc Escott has contributed several key goals with his nifty wrist shot from the left wing and David Wartman has been a real threat at center. David Bailey and Danny Hansberry have exerted offensive pressure from the point position with very strong slap shots while Peter Volpe and Brian Kwon have been strong and steady defensive players. Andover has been placed in the top divisions of both leagues. This means they will play against some of the best teams in the state. With continued hard work, coaches Dan Moynihan and Steve Munroe feel the boys will be competitive.

For the homeless, the dream is shattered.

The American dream has always meant home ownership. But for homeless people throughout New England, the struggle to get "home" can seem insurmountable. For them, the dream is shattered.

Again this holiday season, Commonwealth will contribute $50 to the Massachusetts Coalition for the Homeless for every approved mortgage application we receive during December and January. The money raised will be presented during WCVB's December 18 telethon, "Home for the Holidays."

If you're looking for a home loan, think of Commonwealth. We'd like to help make everyone's dreams come true.

SENIOR CITIZENS

Top volunteer

Walter Wertheimer of Andover was honored as one of the major founders of the Learning in Retirement Association of the University of Lowell at the 15th anniversary celebration of Elder Services of the Merrimack Valley, Inc. Finances ... movies ... party

For those of us who are older

By Mary A. Byrne

"What to do with what you've got," general guidelines for financial planning and a variety of investment options for middle and upper income retirees will be presented by financial consultant Ralph Rosetti and a representative from AARP on Monday, Nov. 20, at 1 p.m.

Join us for a very helpful and interesting discussion.

Just a reminder that the Thanksgiving party is Tuesday, Nov. 21, at noon. A turkey dinner, raffle prizes and Chet Harnden should provide a fun-filled afternoon.

Fran Luca will hold a Christmas craft bazaar Nov. 21 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Anyone wishing to donate a craft article should call the town of Andover, ext. 289.

The senior center office will be open Friday, Nov. 24, the day after Thanksgiving. The kitchen will be closed and no film will be shown. However, Bingo will be held as usual at 1 p.m.

A trip to Quincy Market is set for Dec. 7, leaving the center at 9:30 a.m. and returning around 4:30 p.m. This is a nice opportunity to enjoy the foods, sights and holiday atmosphere the market has to offer.

The Christmas party will be held Dec. 18. Carol will serve a roast beef dinner and a festive celebration is planned.

As part of the "Let's Go Bananas" ice cream party, a Christmas tree will be placed in the dining room and we invite you to help decorate it. If you have an ornament you'd like to place on the tree, bring it to the party. Chet Harnden and his big band sound will be there. The cost of the party is $2.

Anyone interested in volunteering at the senior center should contact volunteer coordinator Olivia Scileppi. If you could spare even an hour a week to help someone that really could use some support, Olivia would love to welcome you into the program. We need friendly visitors, people to do errands for shut-ins, volunteers for the foster grandparent program and many other services and activities.

The film series will include That's Entertainment today at 1 p.m. and Wuthering Heights tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. No movies will be shown next week due to Thanksgiving.

The senior center office will be open Friday, Nov. 24. The kitchen will be closed.
